The earliest homesteads in the area were donation land claims granted by President Lincoln. The Willamette Valley received its first regular immigrants in 1841. The arrival of 111 persons that year doubled the number of the white population in the Willamette Valley. The Casons and the Rinearsons were the first settlers to receive their donation land claims in the area know now as Gladstone. Peter M. Rinearson and his family owned the land between Jennings Lodge and the Clackamas River, and between the Willamette River and Portland Avenue. The Fendal Casons, who came to Oregon in 1843, owned an area equal in size east of Portland Avenue, including the present Seventh Day Adventist (S.D.A.) Campground.

The white settlers lived alongside the area's Indians, who operated a ferry across the Clackamas River. The famous "Pow-Wow" maple tree marked the place where the different Indian tribes, mainly Clackamas and Multnomahs, met to make trading agreements, settle community affairs, and conduct wedding ceremonies. The tree still stands on Clackamas Boulevard, though a little battered. Adjacent to the "Pow-Wow" tree was an Indian racetrack that Peter Rinearson later used as an exercise and training ground for the racehorses he bred. In 1861, it was used as a parade ring for the First State Fair held on the Rinearson property, with the "Pow-Wow" tree marking the entrance.

Soon after the arrival of the Casons and the Rinearsons, the Indian ferry was replaced by a toll bridge across the Clackamas River where the present Park Place Bridge stands. This bridge was washed out by the waters of the 1856 flood, but it was soon rebuilt and finally purchased in 1861 by Ad Cason who operated it as a toll bridge. Ad's gun shop at the north end of the bridge served as a coach stop for stages traveling between Portland and Oregon City. The same Ad Cason built the first school for Gladstone, Park Place and the Clackamas area, on his father's property in 1871. The district was formed with 27 taxpayers.

The founder of the City of Gladstone, however, was Harvey Edward Cross who named it after a British Statesman he admired, Sir William Ewert Gladstone. Cross purchased the 640 acre donation land claim from William, son of Fendal Cason, in 1883. He formed the Gladstone Real Estate Corporation and had it incorporated in 1889. In 1893, Harvey Cross had part of his land platted for a town and prepared lots for sale east of what is now Portland Avenue. He accepted the suggestion by his surveyor to name the streets running north and south toward the Clackamas River after American colleges and those crossing them east and west for English universities. The city was formally incorporated on January 10, 1911 (one year too late to be counted as a city in the 1910 census), and O.C. Freytag became its first mayor.

In 1894, Cross granted a fifty year lease on what is now the S.D.A. Campground to the Willamette Valley Chautauqua Association for its annual summer assemblies. The originator of the idea was Mrs. C.I. (Eva Emory) Dye, with whom Harvey Cross concurred that such a project would be of great benefit to Gladstone and other towns and communities in the area. The first auditorium, built in 1895, seated 3000 people; the second, erected in 1917, seated more than twice as many.

Because of Chautauqua, Gladstone became a cultural and social center. Railroad and street cars brought people from Portland and other towns and communities for concerts, ball games and sermons by evangelists such as John Phillip Sousa, Billy Sunday and William Jennings Bryant. The first Clackamas County Fair (1907) was held on the Chautauqua Park grounds.

Gladstone's Chautauqua Park was the third largest permanent park in the United States. Its auditorium was often jammed with $2.00 season ticket holders for morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Lake Chautauqua, described by one observer as "very silent and still," added to the beauty of an already beautiful and pleasant park.

What is perhaps most notable about Gladstone in those early days is the transportation system that provided access to, and from, the city. The railroad was brought by Ben Holladay, who hired 600 Chinese workers to build the bridge over the Clackamas River at what is now called "Hi-Rocks." Completed in 1869, rail transport became a popular mode of travel. Upon the establishment of the Chautauqua Park, Southern Pacific erected a station at the junction of Oatfield and River Roads and called it "Chautauqua."

Another very important mode of transportation made available to Chautauqua goers was the electric streetcar. Built in 1893, it ran from Portland to Oregon City. In Gladstone, streetcars ran on a spur along Dartmouth Street to the entrance of the Chautauqua Park on Oatfield Road. The train and the streetcar supplemented the private conveniences of horse-drawn vehicles. Much of the buggy and wagon, and later the automobile, traffic used the wagon bridge, originally built over the Clackamas River in 1860.

The decline in the popularity of Chautauqua was partly due to music and vaudeville acts which came to Portland; the two art types which played an important part in making it popular. Easier transportation provided other alternatives and had a lot to do with the termination of Chautauqua and the closure of the park in 1927. After Judge Cross passed away in 1929, the Chautauqua Park grounds and buildings were sold to the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

The death of Harvey Cross marked the end of a man's career whose influence was felt far beyond Gladstone and its immediate surroundings. In addition to founding the City of Gladstone and organizing the Chautauqua Association, Harvey Cross taught school, practiced law, became a member of the State Legislature, and, for many years, was County Judge of Clackamas County. Over a period of time, he donated property to the Chautauqua Association, the Baptist Church, the Christian Church, the Gladstone Elementary School and to the City of Gladstone for a park by Clackamas River, known now as the Cross Memorial Park.

After Judge Cross and Chautauqua, Gladstone became a quiet, well-kept community with few local stores for families whose wage earners worked in the mills in Oregon City and West Linn. By 1920, Gladstone had a population of 1,069. Its population more than doubled by 1950. According to the Bureau of Census, Gladstone's 1977 population was 8,985.

DR. WHEELER'S REMARKABLE STORY HEALING AND RECOVERING FROM A LIFE THREATENING ILLNESS

"In the late summer of 1994 I almost died. My health completely broke down because my immune system was destroyed from taking medications for parasites. I developed tumors in my neck, extremely painful arthritis, bloody stools, overwhelming systemic candida, extremely poor digestion and elimination and numbing exhaustion. I was at the edge of death, barely able to get out of bed.

Fortunately, I discovered MPS-GOLD™, the proprietary freeze-dried Aloe Vera powder (comprised of long chain, high molecular weight manose/galactose carbohydrate molecules) I have manufactured in Costa Rica for my company. The results were immediate right from the first dose. I went from being bed ridden to swimming with my kids in just a few days. All of my symptoms decreased by at least 80%. Initially, I took a therapeutic dose of two and a half level teaspoons a day, increased it to seven and a half teaspoons for six weeks and then dropped the dose back to two and a half teaspoons a day for four months. I was then able to continue with a maintenance dose of half a teaspoon a day. I made a full recovery and went back to a fast paced schedule of a 60 hour work week."

The multiple variations in MPS-GOLD™ have been discontinued, so that the best of all three, MPS-GOLD™ 100, 200 and 300, are all found in just the MPS-GOLD™ 100. The range of molecular weights is greater, both on the low and high end and there are more components from the plant in the MPS-GOLD™ 100 than before since the new extraction and missing process insures that only the parts of the plant that serve no beneficial purpose are removed. Both the amplified immune system functional properties and the monatomic elements that provide for communication via light impulses from cell to cell that were previously found in the MPS-GOLD™ 200 and 300 respectively are now completely available in the MPS-GOLD™ 100.

To read some selected articles I have written, including the complete article on how Aloe Vera Saved My Life, please click to www.0disease.com/0articles.html.

DR. WHEELER RESEARCHES AND DISCOVERS THE ULTIMATE NATURAL SUPPLEMENT PROGRAM FOR THE IMMUNE SYSTEM

Over the next few years Dr. Wheeler developed a comprehensive system of natural supplements called The 7 Natural Supplements for Perfect Health to give people everything they need to establish the foundation for all nutrition. Of the new supplements Dr. Wheeler discovered that one stands out as even more important than the MPS-GOLD™ 100 that literally saved my life.

The most important natural supplement in Dr. Wheeler's system of wholistic healthcare will surprise many people. This natural supplement is water, when it is imbued with life supporting vibration and energy in the way nature intended under ideal environmental circumstances. Primordial M-Water™ is the name given to a water concentrate that is added to other drinking water in order to transform it into a miracle healing water, but at the same time having a scientific connection based on the functional properties of water (M-Activated Water™ is created by adding just two teaspoons of Primordial M-Water to a gallon of clean drinking water).

Many people have benefited from drinking both the M-Activated Water throughout the day and small amounts of the concentrated Primordial M-Water right after waking up and right before going to sleep – which is based on many different unsolicited testimonials for doctors and the general public from around the world (please read the full disclaimer found on the site map for a complete presentation of testimonials as anecdotal evidence).

The theoretical basis for the importance of water for health is based on the fact that each person is 75% water. When clean drinking water is transformed with Primordial M-Water, the body has a much greater capacity to discharge patterns of dis-ease through the introduction of a comprehensive state of ease. By saturating all the cells with Living Water all the other natural supplements in Dr. Wheeler's system of wholistic healthcare (the other six supplements in the system of seven) can contribute much more effectively to the functional maintenance of health. In addition, the goal of discharging patterns of disease based on an energetic model of health will take place (read the section on the home page that follows about Healing versus Curing).

There are some researchers who point out that vibrational input from living water is just as important as tangible nutrients and important natural supplements like MPS-GOLD 100 from aloe vera. Although still in the highly theoretical area of research, there is information being established that for normal chemical pathways to occur in the body, the cells also need the vibrational and energy input from water.

In addition to the many reports of benefit from drinking M-Water™, there are many reports of benefit on the website from people who use the entire system of 7 Natural Supplements for Perfect Health™ (which can be found on the site map index). The complete system of 7 Natural Supplements for Perfect Health is: Primordial M-Water™, MPS-GOLD™ 100, Immune Power Herbal Formula™, Oat Beta Glucan 1000™, Immune Revitalizer™, Flaxseed Oil, Celtic Trace Minerals™ and Pre Crystalline Coenzyme Q10. (please read the full disclaimer found on the site map for a complete presentation of testimonials as anecdotal evidence).

Dr. David Wheeler urges every reader of this website to get started right away on his system of natural supplements and discover their profound healing benefits. Please feel free to contact Dr. Wheeler's office so that any questions you may have can be answered (the toll free number to Dr. Wheeler's office is 1-888-342-6772).

DR. DAVID WHEELER FINE TUNES HIS NATURAL HEALTHCARE SYSTEM: Dr. David Wheeler has decided to fine tune the natural supplements he offers to have more of a focus on the two primary goals of his wholistic healthcare system: 1) to balance general body chemistry that also coincides with discharging negative patterns of dis-ease and 2) to bolster and balance the immune system. In addition to the natural supplements he has researched and developed, he also recommends taking a few basic vitamin and mineral supplements and eating a well balanced diet.

CONTACT DR. DAVID WHEELER DIRECTLY WITH YOUR QUESTIONS YOUR FIRST CONSULTATION IS FREE

Dr. Wheeler is very accessible and is available to answer your questions about his breakthrough healthcare system of natural supplements. He is definitely on the cutting edge of healing for the third millennium -- with his ideas and approaches different than what most people have been hearing from both the mainstream allopathic medical profession and the alternative health care community of practitioners and retail sources of natural supplements and treatments. In fact, in most cases there isn't any difference between what mainstream allopathic medicine has to offer and the thousands of supplements that are prescribed by alternative doctors and found in health food stores. This is because the underlying approach of trying to isolate and cure specific health problems is what takes place in most natural treatment approaches, instead of providing a wholistic system that releases the infinite power of the body to health itself as is the case with Dr. Wheeler's natural supplement combinations. With Dr. Wheeler's system of 7 Natural Supplements for Perfect Health™ you will find the best of the best in wholistic healthcare. In fact by taking Dr. Wheeler's Primordial M-Water™, MPS-GOLD™ 100 Aloe Vera powder and the other natural supplements in his system, you will change your life and health – with increased vitality, physical energy, a clearer mind and more balanced emotions. Regardless of whether you are already healthy and just want the best health maintenance program or you have serious health issues to contend with, give Dr. Wheeler a call and become involved in a natural approach to healing that really works!
